BONUS BILL IS REPORTED TO SENATE

Is Made Payable to Soldiers in 1923 and Question of Taxes Passed to Next Congress

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 26.—With its tax provisions eliminated, the soldiers' bonus bill was reported to the senate today by the finance committee. The bonus will be payable Jan. 1, 1921. The question of taxes to meet the cost of the bill is left with the next congress.

Aside from striking out the tax provision the committee made little change in the house bill, retaining five options of a cash bonus based on length of service, deferred certificates, farm and home aid and vocational training. Senator McClure, in charge of the bill, plans to call it up probably next week. Several senators gave notice of opposition. Senators Gerry and Jones indicated they would seek to have the bill immediately effective by restoring its taxation provisions.

When the bonus bill was reported it became known today that one of the plans for financing compensation to former service men was to use the interest on the ten billion dollars of American war loans to the Allies.

FATHERS' AND SONS' BANQUET

tem of rearing a son in the way that he should go. He urged every dad to make up his mind to be a chum to his son; to get closer to his boy; not pay so much attention to business that he won't be interested in everything that interests his son. Mr. Evans told the boys that experience will be the greatest teacher that they can have, no matter what their fathers may tell them of life and its problems. But he prophesied truly, that the time will come in the lives of each of them when they will pay more attention to what fathers tell them, and will realize in after years that father knew what he was talking about. Mayor Evans then called upon the fathers to rise and drink a toast to their sons.

Dr. Fortune's address then followed, and was a gem throughout. He declared that the relationship of father and son is the holiest fellowship on earth. He said that it used to be said that "spare the rod and spoil the child" but nowadays he didn't think that that rod made for companionship. He then told the story of Any Boy and Any Man, and brought the lesson home personally to every man and every boy who heard him. He gave fathers a new realization of their duties and responsibilities toward their growing sons, and undoubtedly made the sons look upon the "old man" in a new light.

Dr. Carpenter said in closing remarks, that he believed that the fathers and sons of Richmond are ready to enter into a covenant of fellowship and intimacy that they have perhaps never had before, after experiencing such a delightful evening together and having the lessons of life as it comes to each and all, presented to them in such an effective and appealing way.

The evening was closed with a prayer by Dr. R. L. Telford. In addition to Dr. Fortune, another out-of-town guest of the evening was B. C. Miller, of the State Y. M. C. A. at Louisville, who was introduced as responsible for the Father and Son banquet idea in Kentucky.

MOLLIE, CRANK THE COW!

Our Henry Ford's decided that the cow's a wasteful actor, that as a milk machine she's punk, and nothing like a tractor.

So now he'll build a cow of tin, and what makes it even odder, He'll fix it up to chew the end of hay and other fodder.

Efficiency will rule the farm, as in factories it's doing, When from the pastures we can hear a herd of tractors mooing.

The motoreows will have their horns, but not the kind that stick you And while the crank may crack your wrist, they'll have no legs to kick you.

And in daily speech the motoreow will also be a factor, No more we'll say "he throws the bull," but now "he throws the tractor."

And the farm garage at milking time will be a pleasant vision— The milkmaids in their overalls all cranking with precision.

Into the pails synthetic milk will froth in bubbling rivers, Below a sign that tells the world: Milk From Contented Flivers.

But it's gonna git better, then folks'll cheer up.

So, meanwhile, dieg—done it, let's pull a foot tick.

By cheerin' up now, whilst the world is still sick!

As long as th' glooms are barred out, you kin tell

Th' old world ain't failin', it's a-goin' to git well!

Frocks Interpret Childhood

SO LONG as the styles in little girls' frocks interpret little girlhood, it will not be necessary for them to cast about for anything startlingly new—no matter how simple they are, they enable an instant appeal. It is the simplicity and childlessness of this spring's offerings that commend them to mothers. They have variety also to offer and many pretty details of finish that endear them to the children. The newest among these finishings is found in "sampler" trimmings. Canvas bands with flowers worked in cross-stitch on them in gay colors like the old-fashioned samplers of a century ago, serve to make belts, bands and tabs that set off many pretty chintz dresses and aprons.

In gingham small checks and cross-hars are favored with plain chintz used for collars and other accessories and for trimmings. The plain chintz also provides short bloomers. The order is reversed in dresses of plain chintz with collars and other accessories of checked or cross-har gingham, but the bloomers with these dresses are of the plain material also.

DYNAMITE THREAT SPURS DRY AGENTS

Tompkinsville, Ky., Feb. 26.—As a sequel to the placing of dynamite at their doors and the receipt of threatening notes by scores of citizens of this city and county prohibition agents and county officers raided Coe Ridge, the most lawless settlement in southwestern Kentucky.

Every person in the settlement, one of the wildest sections in the state, inhabited by half-breeds, a mixture of negro and Indian blood, was arrested. The officers used force to compel them to disclose the hiding place of the stills. A vast amount of whisky and 400 gallons of beer were seized.

The raid was led by Noah Reed prohibition agent who found dynamite attached to the door of his hotel room. The note said:

"Leave town at once or you will be blown up."

Mr. Reed organized a raiding party, consisting of Prohibition Agent McFarland and Deputy Sheriff Keys and Hutchins. So quietly was the raid executed the Coe Ridge band was surprised and forced to surrender before it could offer resistance.

The raid was followed by a mass meeting in a church here, at which resolutions were adopted in which citizens pledged themselves to assist prohibition agents and called on lawyers of the town not to defend anyone arrested for liquor violations.

The Coe Ridge settlement has been inhabited for more than a half century by lawless half-breeds, descendants of an Indian squaw who lived there.

In only one instance has there been an actual attempt to blow up a home. A stick of dynamite, with a partly burned fuse, was found at the door of Judge Jackson, a lawyer, whose son-in-law, a taxicab driver, has given information against moonshiners.

Swope May Take Fight On Richardson To House

Washington, Feb. 26—Deputy Collector W. Vernon Richardson, Danville, conferred with officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau here today in regard to charges filed against him by Representative King Swope, Eighth Kentucky district, alleging that Mr. Richardson violated the regulations against federal employees engaging in political activities.

The charges were preferred by the Congressman in connection with an editorial in a Danville paper, said to have been written by Mr. Richardson.

The conference was private, but Mr. Richardson said tonight that the writer of the editorial had given an affidavit that Mr. Richardson did not see it until it was published in the newspaper.

Representative Swope, it is said, has informed Internal Revenue Bureau officials that unless Mr. Richardson is dismissed, he will discuss the matter on the floor of the House.

AT THE MOVIES

"Blind Love"

Bacon production, six parts, featuring Lucy Cotton. The production is lavish and photography and lighting effects excellent. Miss Cotton is lovely as Josephine. She screens well, wears some very attractive gowns and gives a sincere and convincing performance.

The picture has good entertainment value and will score with the majority of audiences on its romantic appeal. Shown at the local theatres Saturday.

Taylor Picture Real Sensation

Lewis "Huckleberry" Sargent, so dubbed because of his splendid portrayal of Mark Twain's immortal boy creation in "Huckleberry Finn," is once more the hero in a new seven comedy drama, "The Soul of Youth," which promises to keep the house packed at the local theatres Tuesday.

Young Sargent, in this picture, has a role altogether different in type from that of his initial screen appearance. In this he is the modern boy of the city streets reared in a dreary foundling home, without father or mother, but who, when opportunity arises, and he is given a real chance in life, shows sterling qualities of character, and with the addition of a goodly share of pluck and mettle, becomes a real hero and an important figure in the affairs of grown-up men and women.

Sargent is surrounded by a cast of unusual merit, many members of which are famous not only for screen work but for achievements in other fields. Ernest Butterworth, Clyde Fillmore, Lila Lee, Wm. Collier, Jr., Horace Wade, Claude Pepper, Betty Schade, Fred Huntley, Sylvia Ashton and others offer particular interest attaches to the fact that Judge Ben Lindsey, the well known juvenile jurist, and his charming wife, Mrs. Ben Lindsey, also participate in several scenes in the picture.

Te Pen For Pistol Toting

Warren Burnett, of Lee county, who was convicted at the last term of the Lee circuit court on a charge of second offense of carrying a concealed weapon, and who was later taken to the Winchester jail for safekeeping while his appeal was pending, has decided not to appeal, and at his request he was taken to Frankfort by Deputy Sheriff S. R. Powell to begin his sentence of one year in the state prison, says the Irvine Times. Burnett is one of the first to receive this sentence in the Es- tate circuit court.

Warrants will be issued for two other men, Mr. Samuels said.

Seymour, Ind.— "Some time ago I had a sick spell, something like indigestion," writes Mrs. Clara Peacock, of Route 6, this place. "I would get very sick at the stomach, and spit or vomit, especially in the mornings.

BALMY PEACE

IN THE sylvan solitudes," said the wild man of the woods, "a man doesn't see any magazines and doesn't receive any bulletins from the health authorities, so he enjoys a peace that is never known in the busy haunts.

"There a man simply has to subscribe for a lot of magazines, as a matter of self-defense. Canvassers are after him all the time. Some of the canvassers are lone widows with many children to support, and others are energetic young men who are trying to work their way through the veterinary college.

They are deserving people, and you feel it a duty to help them along, so the first thing you know your mail box is jammed full of literature. Having paid for it, you feel that you ought to read it, and your life is ruined thereby.

"When I was young, the magazines tried to entertain people. They had good stories and a Poet's Corner, and a department devoted to timely jokes, and another to household hints and domestic recipes. There was some sense in reading a magazine then, for it soothed and sustained you. But nowadays the magazine editors consider it their duty to harrow your soul and make your hair stand on end like quills upon the porcupine, or words to that effect. They are always viewing with alarm, and trying to convince you that you take your life in your hand every five minutes.

"They have a lot of health specialists writing for them, and these health sharps point out that pretty near everything you eat and drink is a deadly poison. They didn't scare me to any great extent, for I am a most intrepid man, but they soon had my wife so rattled she didn't know whether she was going or coming.

"I always was passionately fond of a good cup of coffee, and my wife could make the best coffee, you ever heard of. She went to work at it like a learned apothecary compounding a prescription. There was no guess work about it. She took an honest pride in it, and her coffee was a revelation to every consumer. I used to be awake at night wishing it was breakfast time, so I could have my morning cup of coffee.

"But one morning when I went to the table the coffee was missing. In its place there was a sickly beverage I had never seen before. I asked an explanation, and my wife said that no more coffee would be made in our house. 'The wonder is,' said she, 'that we still live and move and have our being, for coffee is a rank poison. If you read Dr. Zinkfoogle's article in the Jukopolitan Magazine, you will see that coffee contains a large percentage of tannin, which is so deadly that if you place a drop on the tongue of an alligator, it will roll over, dead.'

"I told her that I had no alligators on the premises, and consequently could not try the experiment, but I assured her that I didn't care anything about the poison. I wanted my coffee at regular hours. She said I'd have to keep on wanting. She thought too much of me to send me to an untimely grave. And, anyhow, she explained Dr. Zinkfoogle had told how to make a substitute for coffee that was perfectly wholesome. She had followed his instructions, and the result was before me. Perhaps it didn't taste as good as coffee, but it was wholesome. It would fill my veins with red corpuscles and restore hair to my bald head. It was made of marrowfuls of peas which had been carefully roasted in a hot oven.

"In order to get a cup of coffee after that, I had to make a sneak to the chop house, and the kind dishes up there made me old before my time. My wife cut out all my favorite dishes because Dr. Zinkfoogle or some other magazine writer denounced them, and finally I was living on roasted peas coffee and boiled spinach, and I concluded that if I had to feed like the cows I'd live like them, so I came to the forest fastnesses."

Marriage Breaker? Busy. One of the deplorable results of Bolshevik misrule in Russia is the installing of a "breaker of marriages" in Petrograd, who is said to be granting more than 500 divorces a week. No investigation is necessary, the only requirement being the signature of the person desiring freedom from marriage.

A Helpful Hint.

"Ar-r-r-r!" growled a hypercritical customer in the rapid fire restaurant. "This confounded piece of meat is so tough I can hardly eat it!" "Get it down on the floor where you can put your foot on it when you gnaw it," briskly returned Heloise, the waitress.—Kansas City Star.

The Difference.

"A good housewife is very different from a good husbandman." "How so?" "She is always sewing tears."

CAMPAIGN TO HELP SHEEP INDUSTRY

By Associated Press

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 25.—An extensive campaign including more than 60 demonstrations in 50 Kentucky counties for the purpose of showing the need of certain forms of care for lambs and the proper methods to be followed, will be started by the State College of Agriculture at Hickman, Fulton county, February 28, according to an announcement just made by R. C. Miller, sheep extension specialist of the College.

The complete schedule of demonstrations has not yet been made up, but the announcement made today gives the following dates and places: Henderson, March 2; Hopkinsville, March 3; Russellville, March 4; Bowling Green, March 5; Murray, March 7 and 8; Paducah, March 9; Mayfield, March 10, and Bardwell March 11. The demonstrations will be under the direction of Mr. Miller who will be assisted by the county agents and local farmers. The newly planned campaign is the beginning of an effort on the part of the state college, it was stated, to advance the sheep industry in the state. The sheep raisers of Kentucky have lost thousands of dollars' annually through sending most of their sheep to market with long tails and the males not properly cared for, Mr. Miller said, and for this reason the demonstrations are to be held.

Saddle Horses Sold

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 26.—The annual February auction of the Kentucky Sales Company came to a close today when 73 head of saddle horses sold for a total of $14,923, average of $204.50 per head. The quality of the stock sold today was much lower grade than that offered yesterday when the first of the saddlers placed under the hammer and the prices were correspondingly lower. The total of 131 saddle horses sold during the two days' sale brought an average of $228.

Pluribus, bred by his owner, T. W. O'Brien, of Chicago, has won several stakes and Rangoon, nominee of former United States Senator Johnson N. Camden, of Kentucky, was among the top-notch colts in the west last year.

United Verde, owned by C. W. Clark, a Montana mining millionaire, was purchased as a two-year-old for the reported price of $10,000 from Thomas Murphy, of Louisville. Records credit him with winning the Bashford Manor stakes from Oriole in the mud at Louisville last year. Oriole was accounted among the best on a heavy track. United Verde later was injured, but is now regarded near the best of his form.

Muskalonge, H. C. (Bud) Fisher's nominee, is credited with winning several stakes. He showed superior form at New Orleans as a two-year-old and already has outdistanced good horses as a three-year-old.

The derby is at a mile and a quarter for three-year-olds. It will carry $50,000 in added money and is expected to net the winner approximately $40,000.

Announcement of the full list of derby candidates which, according to indications, will number more than 100, is expected within a few days.

MILL*MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL*HOW KENTUCKY COUNTIES WERE NAMED(Some interesting data prepared by the Associated Press with the assistance of the state librarian at Frankfort from histories and documents in the library. Additional sketches will appear from time to time. The series begins with the nine original counties.)

Lincoln—Organized in May, 1780, as one of the first three counties operated when the District of Kentucky was carved out of Fincastle county, Va.; county seat Stanford. Named for Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, a distinguished Revolutionary officer. At the time of its formation the county contained about one-third of the state, running from Cumberland Gap to the Mississippi river and containing all of Kentucky lying south of the Kentucky river and south and west of Green river. Now a small county because many counties cut out of it. Harrodsburg was the original county seat and here the first court ever held in Kentucky was organized January 16, 1781. Stanford became the county seat in 1785.

Jefferson—Organized in May, 1780, as one of the first three counties created when the District of Kentucky was carved out of Fincastle county, Va. County seat Louisville. Named for Thos. Jefferson, then governor of Virginia. It embraced "that part of the south side of the Kentucky river which lies west and north of a line beginning at the mouth of Benson's Big Creek, and running up the same and its main fork to the head; thence south to the nearest waters of Hammond's Creek and down the same to its junction with the Town Fork of Salt river; thence south to Green river and down the same to its junction with the Ohio," said Collins' history of Kentucky quoting the original act. Twenty-eight other counties have been carved out of it.

Fayette—Organized in 1780 as one of the first three counties when the District of Kentucky was carved out of Fincastle county, Va. County seat Lexington. Named for General Mortiere de LaFayette, French soldier who aided the United States during the Revolutionary war. Originally included all that territory beginning at the mouth of the Kentucky river and extending up its middle fork to the headwaters and embracing the northern and eastern portion of the state.

Nelson—Formed in 1784 by the Virginia Assembly. Fourth county formed. County seat Bardstown. Named for former Governor Nelson of Virginia. Eighteen counties have since been formed in whole or part from it. When formed it occupied all of the territory between the Salt and Green rivers as far east as what is now the line of Washington county.

Bourbon—Formed in 1785 by the Virginia Assembly. Fifth county formed. Named for the Bourbon family of France, a prince who added colonies with men and money in the Revolutionary war. County seat, Paris. This county gave its name to the famous "Bourbon" whisky with which Kentucky was for more than 125 years associated. The first distillery was erected in this county in 1790 by Jacob Speares and others of Pennsylvania.

Mercer—Formed in 1785 by the Virginia legislature. Sixth county formed. Named in honor of Gen. Hugh Mercer, Harrodsburg, the county seat, is said to be the oldest town in Kentucky and is the oldest county seat, having been the original county seat of the state.
